Chicago a Seaport
Says Bryan to Atheists
Baby Has a Pain
For You, Mr. Publisher
By Arthur Brisbane

CHICAGO, July 6.—(By Arthur Brisbane.)
NEWS THAT WILL be important when all other news of today will be forgotten is this:
Direct steamship service will be established between the city of Chicago and Northern Europe on August 15, when the first ship will sail from Chicago for England.

Sixteen steel ships will go through the Lakes and into the ocean without changing cargo or crew.
This is the beginning of international "seaports" on the Great Lakes. Chicago, Milwaukee, Detroit, Cleveland and other cities will be as much "seaports" as Liverpool and New York.

ONE OF THESE days when our government concentrates attention on the Great States, there will be a canal from Lake Michigan down the Mississippi valley, and through to the Gulf, connecting all points on the Mississippi and on the Lakes with all the globe.

WILLIAM J. BRYAN made this wise remark:
"I am not worried about an atheist who admits he is an atheist. The man who denies the existence of God is not apt to have much influence."
He added:
"Atheism is not nearly so dangerous as so-called atheistic evolution. That is an atheistic which denies pain, which religion is being removed."

IF THAT'S SO, "atheistic evolution" is kinder than some of the old religion. There was no atheism about our old friend Calvin, when he removed his brand of religion from St. Servetus in the bonfire, and none about Terquem, when he "removed" religion from hundreds of Jews via the auto-burn.

STOCK GAMBLERS feel about the market as a young mother does about a baby with a stomach ache. They don't know exactly what is the matter with it, and the baby can't tell.

The Bank of England raised the discount rate from 3 to 4 per cent. That disturbs the situation. How would the speculating gentlemen feel if they lived in Germany, where conservative banks allow you from 17 to 20 per cent on your balance?

PUBLISHERS TAKE NOTICE! The Canadian Legislature authorizes the Governor to stop shipping of pulp wood to the United States. The idea is to give Canadian labor the wages earned by making the pulp into finished paper. This will mean many American paper mills, throwing thousands out of work and adding about ten dollars a ton to the price of paper here.

THE CANADIANS are strictly within their rights, as this country would have been last Winter if it had kept its hard coal for United States citizens during the shortage. Instead of sending it by thousands of carloads into Canada.

"PUT MONEY IN the purse" if you want notice in this day and nation. Newspapers tell you over and over that Mr. Bok offers $100,000 for the best news-gathering piece. Take away he hundred thousand dollars and what remains. Not much, simply a gentleman with benevolent intentions.

A GENTLEMAN INQUIRING about poor without $100,000 is a "crank." A gentleman with $100,000 is a generous patriot. Mr. Bok was wise when he got money first and began talking afterward.

JOSEPH SUTPA, who killed the Finance Minister in Czechoslovakia, is sentenced to eighteen years in prison. That's ordinary enough. The man who dies every year on his crime SUTPA must enter a dark cell and fast for several days. As a result SUTPA will once every year be sorry he shot the Finance Minister, and also he will live more years than he would otherwise. Fastings only a few clear out the system—and lengths life.

THIRD WIFE OF HER HUSBAND IS FOUND

MRS. IVY LILLIAN BELL

A third wife arose to confound Charles H. Harris in court at Cleveland, O., when he was returned there from Senecaville, where he had been bigamously married to Mrs. Ivy Lillian Bell, his erstwhile landlady.

Arrested in Senecaville, Harris admitted having a wife in Cleveland. He served a sentence in Midway County Jail and was then extradited to the Ohio city for trial.

The third wife was in reality his first and she brought their two children to court. Wife No. 2 also testified against Harris, who confessed to the three marriages and was sentenced to from one to three years in the Warrensville Workhouse.

NEWPORT MAN WED SECRETLY IN FRANCE

Newport, July 6.—Newport society was surprised by news of the secret marriage in Paris of Mrs. Alfred N. Beadleston of Newport, widow of the late Alfred N. Beadleston of New York, to John McCarthy Little, of Newport.

The ceremony was performed in the American Church in Paris by the Rev. Paul Hurt, rector. Both bride and groom were present. Mrs. Beadleston was attended by Mrs. Mathilde Van Buren attended the bride.

No announcement of the engagement had been made. Newport did not even suspect an engagement, although it was generally known Mr. Little and Mrs. Beadleston were intimate friends.

Nan Smyth demanded. He had not been having it at breakfast. If he had been, it was almost over.

BOSTON MASSES CORPS OF SPECIALISTS TO FIGHT DISEASE

BATTLE FOR BLIGHTED BABYHOOD

All America Will Watch Campaign Leading Doctors in Hub

Therapies of the father are NOT going to be visited upon the children—
Not if the city of Boston can help it.

For the first time in medical history a community has awakened to the evils of a blighted babyhood and a blighted childhood, and experts and specialists have been marshaled to meet the enemy face to face.

In the mass of the thousands of afflicted babies and children throughout Greater Boston, the City of Boston has started the first in a long series of studies ever undertaken to locate and treat a violent form of mental disease which every year takes its frightful toll of our children.

This form of mental disease, which occurs through crowded streets and crowded schools in crowded cities with the ruthlessness of an invader, is to be subjected to the bright glow of some white medical men through the country which the present step by step.

IN CHARGE OF EXPERTS.
Under the supervision of special test representing the best of their profession, a corps of experts will attempt to locate and treat children responsible for infection in our children. Theirs is the task at Long Island hospital will be made the subjects of a definite and definite study, under the direction of Professor Hans Zinner, of the medical school of Columbia University.

Professor John C. Tierney, of Cornell University, Professor W. T. Hoyle, head of the department of bio-physics at Harvard Dr. John H. Cunningham, widely known as a urinary specialist, Dr. R. H. Boyd, Dr. Edgar C. Graves, Dr. Devolet J. Johnson, great institutions commissioner, and Dr. Douglas Phillips.

Miss R. A. Scudder, bacteriologist, the bureau of laboratories of the health department of the City of New York, and Miss Ethel M. Chen, a specialist of the research in bacteriology of the U. S. Army department of health, will conduct the laboratory work.

NO EXPERIMENTATION.
In no case of the world will be subjected to experimentation. Blood of the children will be made and each case studied separately, all circumstances surrounding the case being carefully recorded and observed.

The research work will be conducted at Long Island hospital will be divided into two steps. The first of the active organization responsible for the infection, and the treatment of the latter. A comprehensive examination, the name applied to the blood test whereby the presence of infectious organisms is determined, will be made of each child. That test, while locally different, corresponds in the famous Wassermann test used upon to determine the presence of specific blood poison.

HOPE FOR SUCCESS.
In the opinion of the experts who will conduct the investigation, the isolation of the organism promises to be successful. If it is successful, thousands of school children in Boston schools have a winning chance against a dreaded disease.

There is nothing new about this disease, according to Dr. Roger C. Graves, secretary of the commission undertaking the work, although it is known about it. Virulent in form, it may spread from one infected child, throughout an entire neighborhood, school or institution.

"This particular disease is not contagious," declares Dr. Graves, "but is acquired after birth. It might be acquired from infected parents through congenital infection at birth."

CAUSES OF INFECTION.
"Congenital" conditions in the home might account for the child's

Infection; and claiming from an infected person coming in contact with the child, might be responsible. On the other hand, hundreds of children might contract the disease from playing with a child so infected, or from acquiring it in the large city schools, where many children are crowded.

"This investigation will be carried out with the disease in the adult eye will be confined entirely to attacking infection among children."

"Boston is the only city known in the country to fight this particular infection. The prevalence of it in infected children is so alarming in large cities, in the country, and in the city of Boston, that it is a national problem. Aside from every other angle of the situation, the epidemic of the health of the entire community is at stake. Boston, through this investigation, will be the center of medical interest throughout the country."

Widespread education presents the only solution of similar health problems, according to Miss Scudder, a widely known bacteriologist, who has been located to the city during the period of research.

"State presentation of the matter in clear, intelligent form to school children," Miss Scudder says, "is the only way out of health problems that have grown and thrived in ignorance and a poisoned sense of propriety."

RED-HEAD GIRLS 1 IN 20; BLONDES ONLY 1 IN 14

Washington, July 6.—The blonde has become a matter for scientific speculation. Included in the annual report of the Smithsonian Institution is a scientific paper by Dr. Alex. Huxley of the United States National Museum dealing with the color of the hair and skin of the human race.

The red blonde, Dr. Huxley finds, is a rare object for the cause of the true red blonde and some part of all is the absolute blonde. Among men and women he found little difference in the frequency of blonde and brunette. But there are four red-headed women in two hundred men. Two out of every hundred men have red hair.

One out of every sixteen men has red blonde hair, one out of every fifty women has red blonde hair. Every ten has hair that is true black. Out of every fifteen women has
